

mTM anchors foundation-model morphology to biologically meaningful contours, then tests which molecular programs remain encoded after anatomical labels and spatial covariates are fixed.